MIGRATION AND IDENTITIES IN TRANSITION

A MULTIDISCIPLINARY WORKSHOP

About the Workshop

This workshop is designed for Master's students and PhD candidates interested in exploring how migration shapes and transforms identities in contexts of social, cultural, and digital transition.

Through a multidisciplinary approach, participants will:

- Engage with different disciplinary perspectives and scientific methodologies;
- Critically reflect on their own conceptual tools for understanding identity and migration;
- Explore the relationship between migration and collective identities across different transformative contexts.

The workshop aims to create a shared conceptual space, drawing on participants' diverse academic backgrounds to discuss key notions of identity, migration, and transition.

 Online participation also available: please write an email to alessandra.mussi@unimib.it to receive the link.
